

Beginning Sales Training

With Renewing Your Sales Force, new sales representatives for corrugated AND supplier companies will be introduced to the consultative selling process developed by Neil Rackham, called SPIN®. With this systematic and comprehensive selling model, new sales people will develop the specific skills and strategies they need to shorten their sales cycle, strengthen customer relationships, and deliver real, measurable value to customers.

This 4½ hour CD-ROM and workbook are for new sales people from the corrugated and related packaging industries with less than 18 months sales experience.

This program can be completed according to the sales person's own schedule. The sales manager is actively involved in working with the sales person to implement the skills. For new sales people, AICC's Renewing Your Sales Force – Beginner Level Training is the first step to real sales performance.
